Please find here a letter of recommendation for Gail Schiller as a reporter and editor.

I was Gail's editor and supervisor at The Hollywood Reporter for more than three years. Without fail, Gail was a consummate pro as a journalist, hard-working and reliable as an employee.

Gail has extremely sharp skills as a reporter. She's dogged in her pursuit of information. She brings a critical eye to her work and was consistently ahead of the curve in identifying trends and newsworthy developments on her beat. She worked collaboratively with other reporters and editors and was well respected in the Reporter's newsroom.

Gail is a solid writer who cares about her work and always goes the extra mile to fact-check and to ensure that she has represented all sides of a story. She has high sense of journalistic ethics and never cuts corners.

Please feel free to contact me by email or telephone for further discussion.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Littleton
